

HOME HAPPENINGS

Next week brings the longest days of the year.

Homer Strock is having his South Broad street residence painted.

The number of Canfield automobile owners continues to increase.

A principal for the Normal the coming year has not yet been selected.

The residence of Mrs. Jennie Duncan on South Broad street is being painted.

Weather conditions have been much mixed the past week, blowing both hot and cold.

The county normal school in session in Canfield the last six weeks, close Friday afternoon.

Tuesday was Flag Day and Old Glory was very much in evidence in every part of the village.

A large crowd enjoyed the children's day exercise at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning.

Parkview Rebekah lodge will hold an ice cream and strawberry festival in the park Saturday evening.

Canfield business houses will be closed all day July 5 which will be observed as the Fourth of July.

Contractor E. E. Hull and men this week started work on a fine residence for Noah Cramer in Ellsworth township.

Work is rapidly progressing on the new educational building at fair grounds, Orlando Overhulter and Paul Messerly have the contract.

The first home-grown strawberries of the season retailed at 15c a quart in the local market. The present price is 12c a quart or two quarts for a quart.

Rural mail carriers have been advised by the postoffice department that they will be required to count and weigh all mail matter handled by them during the month of July.

The Community Library will be open Saturday afternoons and evenings until the Normal reopens in the fall. Holders of books due for return this week Tuesday will not be fined.

A pleasant and profitable meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Credico. Following the regular program a social hour was spent after which refreshments were served.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Mahoning County Fishing & Pleasure Co. will be held at the Ellsworth lake club house Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Officers are to be elected and other important business transacted.

Specially elected delegates and many other Sunday school workers in this vicinity will attend the Ohio Sunday school convention which meets in Zanesville June 22, 23 and 24, preceded on June 21, by the boys and girls congress which will bring 1000 young folks. At least 86 of the 88 counties will be represented by delegates.

Martin J. Hogan, the young man employed for some time by G. C. Reed of Canfield, who was brought back from St. Louis, where he was in the U. S. army, to answer to the charge of forgery, was not indicted by the grand jury and Sheriff Umstead on Tuesday took Hogan back to Jefferson barracks to serve out his term of enlistment.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. L. A. Manchester Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. T. L. Kiernan was leader and Mrs. C. H. Hine had the subject, "The Home Base," and ably discussed it. Miss Mary Patch gave an interesting review and talk on the work in Alaska. Others took part on these subjects.

Sherman H. Snyder died of hemorrhages of the stomach shortly after noon Wednesday at his home near Smith's Corners. He was a son of the late J. P. Snyder and was born Dec. 10, 1863, on the farm where he died. He was a farmer and for a long time was engaged in the undertaking business with his father. Twenty-eight years ago he was married to Miss Lucy Smith, who with four children, survive him. He also leaves one brother and three sisters. Private funeral services will be held Friday afternoon and the remains will be placed in the Canfield mausoleum.

O. B. Stevenson of Chicago, representing the Colt-Alber Lyceum Bureau, was here Wednesday night and outlined plans for conducting Canfield's Chautauqua which opens August 21 and continues five days. At this meeting J. B. Jones was elected chairman of the local committee. S. A. Arnold secretary and F. A. Morris, treasurer. These three gentlemen, with two others to be named by Mr. Jones, will constitute the executive committee. Other committees will be named later. The program of ten numbers arranged for Canfield will surely be most pleasing.

J. T. Smith of Salem, superintendent of maintenance and construction of public highways, was in Canfield last Saturday looking over the road leading from Canfield to Youngstown, which is to be widened and resurfaced between Canfield and the Cornersburg brick road. The contract for the work has been let and active operation will begin within a few days. The new road will be 14 feet wide, or four feet wider than the original macadam highway. Two gangs of men will be employed between the village and the brick road corner on Lynn street. The funds for the improvement will be furnished by the state, county and township.

Will Give a Concert. The Central Choir of Youngstown, W. Shelly Jacobs, director, will give a concert in the M. E. Church, Monday, June 28, at 8:30 p. m. Eastern time. Admission, 25 cents. Program: Chorus, Soldiers' Chorus and Hallelujah Chorus, together with solos, quartets, etc., will characterize a program that cannot fail to please.

Spring Styles. In clothing, hats, shirts, neckwear, underwear, hosiery are shown at Wiesner's. Some styles you see in larger cities only a little cheaper.

The worse a reputation the harder it is to lose.

Why does the self-made man never suffer from remorse?

An Excuse for Tooting

"What makes you sit up there and toot the automobile horn?" asked the passing friend.

"Charlie tells me to," replied young Mrs. Perkins. "So that I won't hear the machine he says while he is fixing the machine."

Saving His Wife

He—I know an exceedingly fastidious man who caught his wife smoking and put her out at once.

She—The brute!

He—Not at all; she was on fire!

A Theory Shattered

Mrs. Asker—Do you think the devil really has horns and hoofs?

Asker—No, if he had the best trust would have got him long ago."

Local strawberry growers say that there will be only half a crop this year, due to the freezing weather of some weeks ago.

Several members of the local K. of P. lodge attended memorial services in Salem last Sunday.

C. C. Pettit and men are doing considerable county bridge work. A large acreage of potatoes is being planted in Green township.

"HIAWATHA" STAGED IN MILL CREEK PARK

Wonderful Indian Drama Enacted By a Company of Fifty Felt.

Blooded Indians.

The Youngstown branch of Boy Scouts have brought F. E. Moore's company of Hiawatha Indian players to this city for a two week's engagement ending June 28.

The production is staged in Mill Creek Park, almost opposite the entrance to Idora Park.

A dam and foot bridge have been built across the stream and a large stage erected over the water. The place selected is an ideal spot for this production which is given entirely at fresco. A natural amphitheatre extends to the water's edge on which seats have been erected, commanding a perfect view of the action which takes place on the opposite shore, with a real Indian village for a background. The Indians live in this village during the engagement.

The press and public have united in pronouncing Hiawatha the greatest outdoor spectacle ever staged in America.

Performances are given each afternoon and evening.

PROF. B. F. STANTON'S COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

The Dispatch has been able to secure a brief synopsis of the masterful address delivered by Prof. B. F. Stanton, superintendent of the Alliance city schools, delivered at the commencement exercise held in college chapel June 4. He had for his subject, "Education and Well Being."

In part he said:

Within the past generation there has come about a distinct change in the conception of education. Formerly education was largely an individual matter. It so equipped the individual with efficiency and skill that he was placed at a distinct advantage over his fellows. By knowing the laws of nature he was able to meet successfully the opposition of nature's forces. It has also enabled him to rise above his fellows by reason of his superior insight and intelligence. It was individualistic. With the change in the social consciousness which has come about with the past generation education has come to stand for social well-being as well as individual well-being. While it equips the individual with skill and efficiency it also seeks to relate him to his social environment and to imbue him with the social conscience of his age.

In the past, too, education has stood for culture. And I believe in education for culture. Culture is the proof of a man's rank in the scale of being. Culture belongs to man. The animal may be trained but the capacity for culture, as man knows culture, belongs to the higher order of beings. Man cannot live by bread alone. To know the truth and to feed upon it is culture and life.

With the extreme emphasis which the present age is placing upon skill and efficiency as they relate to material things only, there is a serious danger that we shall swing away from culture and become materialistic in our thinking and in our life. Man cannot live by material things alone and be at his best. Sooner or later there come times in the life of every individual when he turns from things transitory to things that abide. Sooner or later there come times and crises when a moral truth, a spiritual reality, or a character which survives all the changes and wrecks a life will be the thing of supreme moment.

New in these past times have been a half dozen great problems with which cultivation has had to deal. There has been famine. Up to a few centuries ago the food question was a very important matter with all nations. Egypt watered by the Nile, Baby watered by the Tigris and the Euphrates were the granaries of the ancient world. Famine was a matter of annual recurrence. To these nations others came in the hour of famine and need. But that day is largely past. Transportation and improved agricultural have come and reduced famine to the minimum. It is a day of discovery and development. Nature is not yet exhausted. There are many forms of plants and animals which will yet be used to feed the teeming millions of the earth.

And there has been pestilence. Formerly pestilence was as much feared by nations as famine or war. Much has been done to relieve humanity of many forms of sickness. Yet much remains to be done. It has been estimated that one-third of the deaths occurring annually in this country are due to preventable disease. Education in its social emphasis is seeking to reduce preventable disease to the minimum.

The physicians have wrought nobly in their fight with disease, but they can not do it all. They must have co-operation of the home and the school. Train up a child in the way he should go in the matter of sanitation and right living, and you have gone a long way toward the elimination of preventable disease.

In like manner civilization has had to face the problem of war. Formerly it was thought that war was a necessary accompaniment of civilization. Up to a few months ago the world was coming to believe that war was a relic of the past and that it had no place among a civilization known as Christian, except in so far as it asserted a great moral principle. Today the world is witnessing the great disappointment of the twentieth century. It is evident that the problem of war has not yet been permanently solved.

Today America stands before the world as the great nation of peace. My fond hope is that the United States may take such high ground in this European conflict that when it is over and the atmosphere has cleared, all nations may know through the things for which we stood the blessings of peace and forever commit themselves to that high principle.

Now with the problems of famine, pestilence and war civilization has made a great step forward. But there are other problems equally as complex and more perplexing than those which we have already dealt.

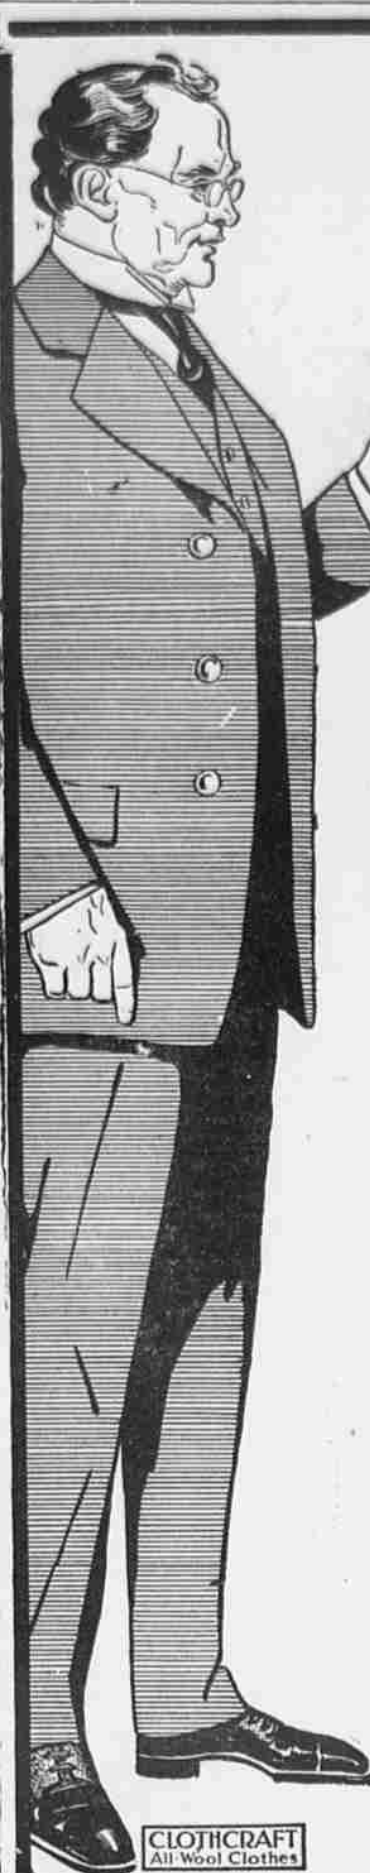

Today we are facing a perplexing situation by reason of the international conflict now on. But there are international questions which divide and which demand our attention. There is the matter of poverty. As a nation in the aggregate we are very wealthy. Our farms and our factories; our schools and colleges; our railroads and steel plants are among the best in the world. Yet at the same time there is an appalling amount of individual poverty. This is a social and an individual problem. The schools must meet it as in individual problems and society and all our social institutions must meet it as a social situation.

So our intelligent citizenship must meet the problems of lawlessness and crime. An exaggerated conception of liberty, a lack of self restraint, and a lax enforcement of law are giving to our people not the most enviable reputation for law enforcement and respect for authority.

These are some of the problems which confront the American people. They challenge our age. They are the call of the hour to our schools and every social institution. And as civilization in the past has been able to meet the problems which have arisen, so the intelligence of the future will be able to meet and meet successfully the problems which now confront us and which shall confront us in the future. The impulse to a better civilization are inherent in man. In all the past they have impelled him on and they will continue thus to impel him until the dream of the social prophet of today shall become the reality in the life of tomorrow.

The Power of Suggestion

Usually about this time of the year every man is debating with himself as to what he will wear during the coming Summer.

In some cases the styles have changed quite a lot and a man must do some tall thinking to answer the question.

Possibly he thinks that the new style may not look exactly right on him when he first puts it on. It may seem a little too snug or too loose.

In a case of this kind a man really needs the suggestion and counsel of an experienced clothing man—one who has made a careful study of the business.

We consider ourselves authority on this, competent to talk, and we feel absolutely sure of our ground.

For that reason we ask you to place your confidence in us—experience shows that you will not have any cause to regret.

There's surely something to suit you in Clothcraft at $10 to $20. Our spring line is complete.
